10 SNCOs promoted to Chief MSgt.

By Staff Sgt. Jason Lake
18th Wing Public Affairs

Ten Kadena senior master sergeants found they were selected to tack on the Air Force's top enlisted rank when the Air Force released the chief master sergeant promotion Wednesday.

The following Kadena senior master sergeants will sew on their final stripe over the next year: Bryant Cole, 718th Aircraft Maintenance Squadron; Curtis Conrad, 18th Operations Support Squadron; Lonnie Slater, 18th Aircraft Maintenance Squadron; Matthew Gibson, 18th Logistics Readiness Squadron; Steven Miller, 18th Component Maintenance Squadron; Philip Crawford, 18th Medical Support Squadron; Michael Sundberg, 353rd Special Operations Group; David Patterson, 353rd Maintenance Squadron; Bruce Dixon, 320th Special Tactics Squadron; Richard Mabry, 82nd Reconnaissance Squadron; and John Harrison, 18th Aeromedical Evacuation Squadron.

Air Force officials selected 589 senior master sergeants worldwide for promotion to chief.

A total of 2,580 senior master sergeants were considered for a 22.83 percent selection rate. Last year's selection rate was 21.06 percent.

The average time in grade and time in service was 3.34 and 22.63 years respectively.

The complete list of selectees is available at <http://www.afpc.randolph.af.mil/eprom>.

18th Wing rolls over PACAF Unit Compliance Inspection

By Staff Sgt. Jason Lake
18th Wing Public Affairs

Hundreds of Airmen and base employees shouted, blasted horns, rang sirens and set off mini-cannons in the Keystone Theater Tuesday afternoon when Pacific Air Forces inspectors announced an "Excellent" rating for the 18th Wing during the unit compliance inspection out-briefing.

More than 130 inspectors from the PACAF Inspector General's team began the five-day inspection of the wing on Halloween.

The inspectors took a close look at the 35 units in the wing, and evaluated each for compliance with Air Force, PACAF and wing-specific instructions, policies and directives. More than 75 percent earned "Excellent" or "Outstanding" ratings.

Inspectors also evaluated the wing on its performance during the full spectrum threat response exercise Oct. 31, which tested the wing's ability to respond and recover during a terrorist attack.

Brig. Gen. Jan-Marc Jouas, 18th Wing commander, congratulated the wing's Airmen and civilians for their accomplishments.

"I couldn't be prouder of our team," General Jouas said. "Regardless of individual unit UCI ratings, we were in this together, and as a team we came out as winners. Just outstanding."

Senior Airman Kristi Popp, an 18th Munitions Squadron precision-guided missile crew chief, was one of the 115 people recognized as an outstanding performer.

The three-year Air Force veteran said she learned a lot from the inspection and said her office is "more orderly" as a result.

In addition to the UCI, PACAF standardization and evaluation teams also conducted three separate inspections to examine operations, maintenance and munitions functions. The 18th Maintenance Group received a combined pass rating of more than 90 percent during both its Maintenance Standardization and Evaluation, and Munitions Activities Standardization Evaluation inspections.

"Once again, our Airmen have demonstrated their mission readiness and ability to get the job done," General Jouas said. "And proven that they're the best in PACAF."

18th Wing: EXCELLENT! Teamwork: OUTSTANDING!

By Brig. Gen.
Jan-Marc Jouas
18th Wing commander

Congratulations, Shoguns! You continue to demonstrate "Excellence in All We Do" everyday, in every way. Last week the Inspector General team validated that we're not only the biggest combat wing in Pacific Air Forces, but also the best. The Airmen and civilians of this wing are the first in PACAF to earn a Unit Compliance Inspection "Excellent" in almost two years. Every group, squadron, flight and agency was rated satisfactory or better, and almost 80% were rated Excellent or Outstanding! From beginning to end you impressed the inspectors, thanks to your great attitude and preparation, and as a result our Team came out as winners. In the eyes of your commander, you are all Outstanding!

More impressively, this UCI was the fourth PACAF-level inspection in the last three weeks for the 18th Wing, and in each case we came out on top. The maintenance, munitions, and operations evaluations that immediately preceded the UCI were all "Excellent" or its equivalent. The inspectors' comments said it all: "Strong sense of teamwork...professionalism is the best I've seen...mission focused...best seen to date (quite a number of those)...best in command...haven't seen anything better." Take pride in these results, wingmen -- you've earned it.

In the eyes of your commander, you are all Outstanding!

It took a lot of hard work to get here, and now it's time to catch our breath; we'll have that opportunity this month and next, with several holidays and long weekends on the calendar. Our quarterly exercise is cancelled due to conflicting demands on the wing -- our strong showing last time leaves me no doubt that we'll be ready if our nation calls. Wingman Day next Friday will give us a chance to renew our commitment to our fellow Airmen, civilians, and families, and have some fun in the afternoon. Take advantage of this end of year period to recharge your batteries and enjoy time off with families and friends, and remember: you are the most important part of our outstanding team -- be careful, be smart, be safe!

Congratulations again, 18th Wing, and let there be no doubt -- you are the best!

Veterans: Defenders of peace, protectors of our freedoms

By Gen. Paul Hester

HICKAM AFB, Hawaii -- Let us never forget. Let us always remember. Today we honor those great Americans who built the foundation on which our great country stands -- our military veterans.

On this day in our history in 1921, the remains of an unknown soldier from World War I were ceremonially buried in Arlington National Cemetery in Washington D.C. This soldier was killed at 11:00 on November 11, 1918.

Since then, the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier has served as a reminder to us that the needs of the many are met by sacrifice from the few.

Our freedom comes at great cost, and during these

*Our freedom comes at great cost, trying times, we are acutely aware of that.

As we continue to fight the Global War on Terrorism, it is important to take this time to reflect.

Today we remind ourselves of who we are as Americans, what we stand for as a Nation, and what we are fighting for as a Country.

Veterans Day is largely intended for us to thank our military veterans for their service and sacrifice for the common good -- life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

I encourage you to extend your hand to veterans today -- true American heroes -- and thank them for their service to our country.

And to you wonderful Pacific Air Forces Airmen and families, I offer my thanks on this Veterans Day for your dedicated work in continuing to defend peace and protect freedom.

SHOGUN WARRIOR OF THE WEEK

Staff Sgt. Jason Scott

Unit: 909th Air Refueling Squadron

Hometown: Stonington, Conn.

Reason for nomination: Sergeant Scott completely revamped four mobility processes in preparation for the unit compliance inspection.

Time at Kadena: 2 years

Editor's note: Shogun Warriors are selected by unit leaders for their outstanding value to their unit and dedication to the Kadena mission. To nominate someone, send the name of your nominee to your unit commander or senior enlisted leaders.

DON'T DRINK AND DRIVE: Did you know more than 2 million Americans suffer from alcohol-related liver disease?

FORCE SHAPING: A Pacific Air Forces spread-the-word team will visit Kadena Nov. 18 to brief wing leadership, squadron commanders and affected officers in preparation for the force shaping board convening at the Air Force Personnel Center, Randolph Air Force Base, Texas, in April 2006. The board will evaluate active-duty line officers commissioned in 2002 and 2003 for continued service in the Air Force.

CAC OUTAGE: The new Commander's Access Channel will be off the air Wednesday for contractor-based training. Refer any questions to 18th Wing Public Affairs at 634-4066.

DIRECT TO HOME APPLICATIONS: Applications for American Forces Network's free direct-to-home satellite system are available online at www.kadena.af.mil. Off-base residents must first get approval from their housing agency before applying for and installing the new system, available Dec. 3. Applications can either be e-mailed to FMO@kadena.af.mil, or dropped off at the Department of Defense Family Housing customer service desk in Building 217.

AFN TEMPORARY OUTAGE: American Forces Network television channel 8 and Wave 89.1 FM radio signals are scheduled to be off the air due to annual maintenance from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday until Dec. 14. The afternoon radio show switches from Wave 89.1 FM to Surf 648 AM between 2 and 6 p.m.

SMOKE-OUT: The Great American Smoke-Out is Thursday. The Smoke-Out is set aside each year to help those willing to quit start on that day. Staff from the Health and Wellness Center will be at the Kadena Base Exchange on the commissary side between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. on Thursday and Nov. 28 to provide

Co-commanders visit

Air Force/Airman 1st Class Jeremy McGuffin

Lt. Col. Victor Dallin, 33rd Rescue Squadron director of operations, briefs local community leaders during a co-commander flightline tour Tuesday. More than 35 co-commanders visited Kadena to learn more about the mission of the base. The co-commander program pairs unit commanders with local leaders to foster friendly relationships, through both official functions and off-duty activities, and to gain support and understanding for Kadena's roles and missions.

information on smoking cessation. The HAWC also provides "commit to quit" kits at any time for those interested. Contact the HAWC at 634-2499 or stop by Bldg. 428 for more information.

HOLIDAY MAILING INFO: Below are the holiday mailing deadlines:

- Space available mail, Nov. 19
- Priority mail, Nov. 26
- First class letters and cards, Dec. 3
- Express mail, Dec. 14

FMO HOLIDAY HOURS: The Thanksgiving holiday hours for the furnishings management and self-help warehouse will be as follows:

- Camp Kinser self-help: Closed from Nov. 23, 12 p.m. to Nov. 28 at 7:30 a.m.

- Chibana self-help: Closed from Nov. 23 from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m.; open Nov. 25 from 7:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

HOUSING CLOSURE: The Kadena Air Base and Camps Courtney and Kinser satellite housing offices will be closed Nov. 25.

NEW CHAPEL SERVICE: A new contemporary worship service called Project 196 begins Nov. 27 at Chapel 1. For more information, call Chaplain (Capt.) John Hurt at 634-1288. See page 6 for information about other chapel services.

FLYING TRAINING DEADLINES: A selection board for navigator training convenes Jan. 24-27. Airmen interested in applying must do so by Jan. 10. Application deadlines for pilot and air battle manager jobs remain Nov. 23. Applicants must meet requirements in Air Force Instruction 36-2205, Applying for Flying Training, Air Battle Manager, and Astronaut Programs. Contact the Military Personnel Flight at 632-8881 for more information.

SMISCT PROMOTION TESTING: Testing for E-8 will be held Dec. 5-16 in Bldg. 59, Room 113. Testing begins promptly at 8 a.m. and 1 p.m. Late arrivals will not be admitted. Those testing must be in uniform and have their military identification card. Contact unit command support staff sections for individual test dates and times.

SHOGUN ONLINE: The Kadena Shogun is available online at www.kadena.af.mil. If the current issues do not load automatically, click the "refresh" button on the Web browser to get the most current page.

AC SHUT OFF: The air conditioning "season" for government work and recreation facilities begins Nov. 15, when those buildings without a waiver will have their air conditioning shut off. Family housing air conditioning will be shut off Dec. 15.

TESTING: Can't test during normal duty hours? The Kadena Education Center will soon offer late testing for college-level equivalent examinations, professional military education and other standardized tests. The first session is scheduled for Dec. 8 at 5 p.m. Call 634-1500 to schedule an appointment.

PEDESTRIAN SAFETY: Use of reflective material—belt, vest or highly reflective clothing—is required on the upper body from sunset to sunrise or during conditions of reduced visibility when skateboarding, bicycling or running. The new Air Force physical fitness uniform meets this requirement.

The Okinawa Perspective

The following is a synopsis of articles that appeared recently in Japanese newspapers.

□ President George W. Bush expressed hope Tuesday that people in Okinawa will support the recent agreement with Japan on a new plan to relocate Marine Corps Air Station Futenma within the prefecture and move 7,000 Marines out of Okinawa. In an interview with news organizations from Japan, China and South Korea prior to his trip to these countries starting next week, President Bush said he will also call for mending the strained ties between Japan and the other two nations.

□ The Kadena F-15 Eagle that lost a section of its horizontal stabilizer Nov. 1 and made an emergency landing at the base resumed flight training Tuesday, according to witnesses. The resumption of flight generated protests from residents who have not recovered from the shock caused by the incident, said Okinawan officials. The chairman of the Kadena Town Base Affairs Office also protested the flight and asked for an immediate suspension of flying.

□ The Japanese Defense Agency Director visited Okinawa Tuesday hoping to gain local understanding over U.S. military realignment plans in Japan, only to be met by renewed opposition from Governor Keiichi Inamine. In response to the director's promise to make utmost efforts to gain local support, Inamine expressed understanding of the importance of the Japan-U.S. security alliance, but rejected the latest bilateral agreement to relocate Marine Corps Air Station Futenma to a new airfield within the prefecture near Nago.

□ More than 50,000 visitors attended the 2005 Okinawa International Carnival held Nov. 5 and 6. Highlights of the event included the international tug-of-war, the samba festival and the international parade on Kuko Street. For the tug-of-war, participants were divided into two teams—east versus west—before pulling on the four-ton rope. "We hope world peace and development will also be weaved into this tug-of-war," said the Okinawa City deputy mayor.

There's more than one way to skin a chicken breast

By Chief Master Sgt.
Clinton Camac
 18th Wing Command
 Chief Master Sergeant

Editor's Note: Tales of the Tape is a six-part series about the pursuit by Kadena's top enlisted leader to achieve a healthier lifestyle. In the last installment, Chief Camac acknowledged that TDYs and exercise programs don't always match up, especially when your knee goes out. This week, here's his report:

If Career Development Courses for fitness existed, I'd give myself about an 85 on the end-of-course test. I feel great!

I started the seventh week Tuesday. Energy levels are high and my motivation is the best it's been.

One factor to consider: I've only lost 11 pounds after six weeks, 7 pounds less than my goal at this point. But that's OK. I'm told and I've read that at some point most folks hit a plateau. You can go through a week without losing any weight, maintain the program the next week and then lose weight. So I need to figure out how to get over it.

I don't open the fridge and try to figure out what I'm grabbing for. I'm not counting water bottles anymore. Chicken breasts (no skin) have become the staple of my evening meal. And I've learned the One Thousand and One ways to season chicken.

As a lover of food, serving size now just kind of makes me chuckle. I've had to learn to take smaller bites and eat slower. At a Marine Corps Ball last week, for all of you watching what I eat, I had the beef, only one of the two big slices served. At another social, I had chicken breast — gee, my favorite — and avoided the mashed potatoes and gravy. It wasn't easy pushing away that American staple.

I've taken the cardio to the streets now, with an early-morning run of two miles about the time house lights start coming on. A 10-minute mile is my pace, and it's time to increase to three miles and 30 minutes to burn more. I can pound out weight training now without thinking about it; the hardest part, still, is fitting it into the afternoon schedule.

The old me groaned at the weekly unit PT session. The new guy finishes strong and still has a lot left in the tank.

So, I'm excited to finish out the 12 weeks and roll into a maintenance program. If I have a shortfall somewhere, that's OK. I'll always have a fall back in a cookbook: "Got Chicken?"

 6-PART SERIES

SECAF focuses on core values

WASHINGTON — The newly confirmed Secretary of the Air Force has set a strong emphasis on both individual and organizational responsibility and accountability — one of his goals for his tenure.

"We have to ... continuously emphasize the integrity of purpose and integrity of the individual," Secretary Michael W. Wynne said. "The Air Force core values are ... to be revered."

Accountability in the Air Force stretches across many areas, from the individual actions of Airmen in the workplace to actions taken by those in the acquisition community that spend taxpayer dollars to equip the Air Force, said Secretary Wynne.

The secretary is looking to "put in place a governance and transparency so that we foster a process oversight that we never had before. Say what you are going to do, and do what you say. Set a standard and then adhere to the standard. I think in most places it is already there," the Secretary said.

"If we can sustain the mutual respect and integrity, and have people accountable to the standard, we will drive away a lot of our critics," he said. "Our critics will become bored with people who set high standards and then adhere to those high standards."

Wing sets time to recommit to wingmen

Compiled from staff reports

Coming off the heels of the wing's unit compliance inspection success, the 18th Wing commander is asking commanders and supervisors to focus unit efforts on "Wingman Day," an Air Force-wide requirement set for Nov. 18 at Kadena.

"The theme of Wingman Day hasn't changed from last year's: Everyday is Wingman Day," said Brig. Gen. Jan-Marc Jouas, 18th Wing commander. "And once a year we focus our attention as a team on how we look after each other."

Last November's first Wingman Day began as a way to counter stress-related incidents Air Force-wide by dedicating a full day to focus on the "culture of Airmen." Units throughout the Air Force were asked to reinforce their commitment as a team and to look after Airmen and their families.

Next Friday will begin with senior leader meetings followed by unit commanders' calls throughout the wing.

The afternoon schedule will be cleared for unit-level team building activities, in addition to a "Chiefs versus Eagles" softball game at the Four Diamonds softball complex.

A schedule of events will be distributed through the chain of command and posted on the Commanders Access Channel.

Events will reach beyond military members through classes or workshops aimed at helping families cope with stressful situations.

Topics on the developing agenda include spiritual wellness, domestic violence and financial basics.

"We've got two wing goals, being ready when our nation calls and taking care of our wingmen," said General Jouas. "We just proved we're ready for our nation. Now we need to ensure we're taking care of our wingmen."

Kadena athlete named best in PACAF, aims for AF title

Air Force/Staff Sgt. Chyrece Campbell
Twyla Sears, a staff sergeant from the 353rd Operations Support Squadron, was recently named Pacific Air Forces' Female Athlete of the Year.

By Staff Sgt.
Jason Lake
18th Wing
Public Affairs

Twyla Sears loves baseball. When she was born, her father had a baseball glove waiting for her when she got home from the hospital.

Now, 32 years later, Pacific Air Force officials had something else waiting for her when she got home from a recent 90-day deployment – the title of PACAF's Female Athlete of the Year.

Sears, assigned to the 353rd Operations Support Squadron, participated in a range of sports within the past year including softball, volleyball and soccer, but confesses that her favorite is softball.

Last year Sears was selected to participate in the All Air Force Women's Softball selection camp at Peterson Air Force Base, Colo.

She also started every game of the All Armed Forces Championships before being selected to pitch for the All Armed Forces Women's Softball Team.

The team went on to win the Western Regionals Softball Tournament in San Antonio, Texas, and Sears was awarded the [First Team] All American Award.

She also participated in various other softball events ranging from the Amateur Softball Association National Tournament to Kadena's own Over 30 Extramural League.

The Bakersfield, Calif.-native said she's glad the Air Force encourages participation in sports through recognition programs like Athlete of the Year.

"My family has always been heavily into sports," she said. "My dad taught me how to play little league baseball when I was 4-years old. I've played every year since."

"It's great that the Air Force recognizes that, while we are serving in the military, we still are ordinary people who like to do other things outside the job."

Sears said that although she's been deployed seven times in the two years she has been assigned to Kadena, it doesn't keep her away from her favorite pastime.

"I just got back from a deployment supporting Operation Enduring Freedom," she explained. "I missed the summer softball season, but after two tournaments this month, I'll have seven softball tournaments under my belt this year."
